To Whom It May Concern:

As the Program Planner for Holocaust Studies and Jewish History for the School District of Palm Beach County, I am pleased to endorse the Spill the Honey Curriculum, an educational program that explores the history of solidarity, collaboration, and shared advocacy between Jewish and African American communities.

The curriculum provides students with meaningful opportunities to examine how these communities have confronted antisemitism, racism, discrimination, and injustice while also highlighting important moments of allyship and collective action. Through historically grounded lessons, students are encouraged to consider the importance of empathy, civic responsibility, and standing together against hate.

The Spill the Honey Curriculum has been implemented in several middle and high schools throughout Palm Beach County, providing educators with valuable resources for facilitating thoughtful conversations about history, identity, prejudice, and solidarity.

I support the continued use and expansion of the Spill the Honey Curriculum as a valuable resource for helping students understand the power of historical knowledge, cross-cultural understanding, and collective action.

Sincerely,

Kimberly Coombs
